Historical treasure hunt

Two versions available

Discover Regensburg interactively—accompanied by a tour guide or on your own, you can explore the city in teams and compete in exciting and fun contests. The tasks are embedded within a historical narrative

Version A: Runtinger Hunt

During an inspection, the dutiful city guard Martin discovers that the guests have entered “his” town without official passes.

The cunning Regensburg merchant Matthäus Runtinger, inventor of the double bookkeeping trick, sees this and decides to help the guests. He vouches for them, presenting them as business partners of his.

However, Matthäus Runtinger has a problem: there are still many preparations to be made for the evening's reception at the Town Hall. He therefore proposes a deal. If the guests manage to arrange the necessary preparations for the grand event, he will provide them with the passes they need. This should ensure free passage for the guests through the city...

Version B: Die Quacks & Curatives Rallye

The young physician Eduardus Schimmelpfennig faces his greatest challenge yet: His Serene Highness, Prince Carl Anselm von Thurn und Taxis, has long been suffering from fatigue and distemper. Since the city has a great interest in the Prince's well-being, the town council has ordered Eduardus to cure him. However, his mentor is once again away on business in Padua and has hidden the ingredients for his panacea well. Thus, Eduardus is in desperate need of help in preparing the miracle curative.

Baseball - HitTrax Simulation Cage

Guggenberger
Legionäre

The beating heart of Regensburg's baseball scene is located at the Armin Wolf Arena, possibly Europe's most beautiful ballpark. The Armin Wolf Arena is not only the home of the Guggenberger Legionäre, but has already hosted the World Baseball Classic Qualifiers twice.

The Guggenberger Legionäre, Germany's largest baseball team, make their home at the Armin Wolf Arena. The team has for years been among Germany's and Europe's top teams and has won the German league five times.

Baseball, however, is also a lifestyle, and this includes the fitting cuisine. A snack at our Beach House Restaurant - California Kitchen is thus, of course, part of the day's events. Towards the end, it is possible to acquire souvenirs for oneself or one's loved ones at home at the fan store, also located directly at the ballpark.
